Grand Champion Female

1960 Ohio and Indiana
State Fairs

Brawith Betsy 2nd, bred and exhibited by Boll Weevil Plantation, Waynesboro, Georgia. Champion at many other shows, also.

Grand Champion Bull

1959 Mid-South Fair

at Memphis. Elam Bar Souvenir Centurion. Breeder, Sherrill Parks, Obion, Tenn. Sold in 1960 spring Southeastern to Jacklen Farms, Plant City, Fla.

During the past fifteen years, no region of North America can compare with the Southeast in the number of outstanding Shorthorns and Polled Shorthorns brought in to establish strong new herds. Now the first effects of this are being felt in the breed's major events across the continent. Each year breeders from a larger area are grasping this fact and are looking to the Southeast as a source for blood that can improve the breed everywhere.

The Southeastern Regional was organized with the vision of being the major source of supply in the Southeast. From a modest beginning it has grown into one of the breed's outstanding events. Wisely, those directing the affairs of this organization chose not to draw tight territorial limits on consignments. By accepting the best over a wide area, they have assembled sales that not only meet quality needs, but offer cattle in sufficient numbers.

Bulls . . . Plenty of Them

The principal purchaser of bulls in this sale is the commercial cattleman . . . although each year a number of the best bulls are sold to head registered herds. The busy cowman realizes that in order to make the best selections of the right ages, at the prices he wants to pay, a big selection is necessary. We give him just that.

Our object is breed expansion. This can't be done without large numbers of females offered at auction. In this sale you will find a liberal selection of top quality females selected for the purpose of helping new breeders establish the right kind of herds. You will also find a group of practical, pasture-condition, cows and heifers. Experience has proved that in this sale cattlemen can buy a truckload of good females at prices that will work out even if he chooses to run them on a commercial basis.

How To Have A Good Sale

You don't kid the cowman. If you bring something worthwhile he will pay you what it is worth. The best place to look for good cattle is where they sold well the year before. It is only natural that a consignor will point his tops to the sale where he has made out best. The Southeastern at Camilla has been successful. Prices have been fair to the seller, and buyers have received good value.

We experienced no difficulty in lining up the right kind for this sale. The consignors have been pointing to it all year.

Grand Champion Bull

Thinking of starting a Registered Herd?

Shorthorns—Polled Shorthorns Are your Best Bet for a Bright Future . . .

Because they are the breed with the greatest expansion potential.

There may be more cattle of other breeds . . . but Shorthorn breeders need give no ground as to competitive quality of their product.

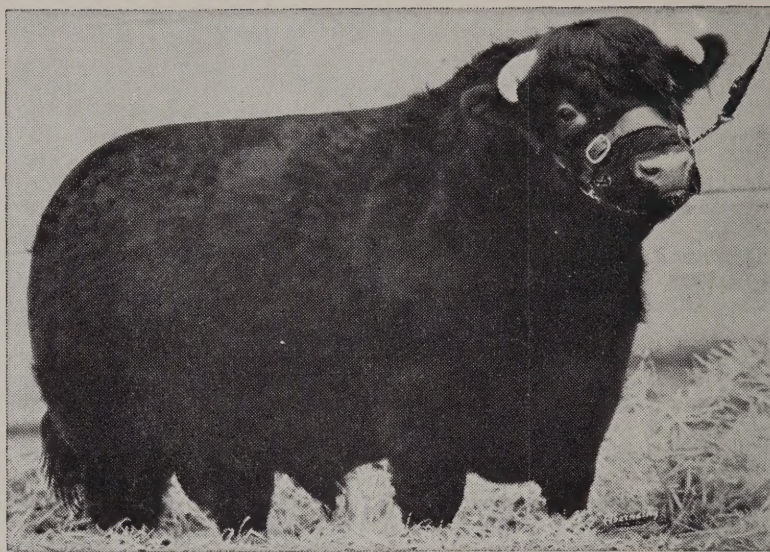

The importance of cross-breeding . . . mating females of one breed to bulls of another . . . is on the increase. There is a natural hybrid vigor so obtained. The Shorthorn bull . . . because of his inherent size and gaining ability is the key to successful cross-breeding. For example, the most successful cross with Brahma cattle came through the development of the Santa Gertrudis, which are 5/8 Shorthorn, 3/8 Brahma.

Thus, the producer of Shorthorn bulls has a two-way market. First, the growing number of Shorthorn commercial herds. Secondly, the thousands of commercial herds of other breeds that are considering the advisability of cross-breeding.

Without much doubt, well over half the bulls sold in this sale will go for cross breeding. All this means a steady, year-in, year-out, rise in demand for Shorthorn and Polled Shorthorn bulls. Naturally this steps up the tempo on the registered level.

When considering which breed to choose in the establishment of your registered herd, consider this tremendous Shorthorn growth potential.

THE SOUTHEASTERN REGIONAL SHORTHORN BREEDERS' ASSN.

In 1955 the total number of cattle sold in the two Southeastern sales was 95 lots.

In 1960 there will be some 220 lots sold in these same two sales.

We are now selling twice as many bulls . . . three times as many females as we did five years ago.

This is just a sample of the GROWTH of the Southeastern Regional Association. The members are listed here. You will meet most of them at the banquet the evening before the sale and at the sale. Join this fine group of enthusiastic breeders who are establishing ever-widening markets for Shorthorns and Polled Shorthorns . . . the world's most useful breed of beef cattle.

Off Grass Female Sale

The following female lots in this catalog make up the "Off Grass" female division. The sale feature was originated in 1956 in the Southeastern and since that time approximately 350 female lots have been sold through the off grass section. These have served as the foundation of many good new herds.

Practical cattlemen will be the first to understand that there are many good quality, well bred registered cattle that are not brought up to show condition. In some cases the owners are not set up to fit cattle . . . or possibly can give close attention to only a few a year. In other cases, a breeder will wish to sell some good cows and calves . . . and it would not be wise to impair their breeding condition by bringing them in any way but their natural pasture flesh. In other instances, breeders might not have time to halter break their cattle.

In any event the "off grass female sale" not only provides an excellent place to establish registered herds at prices where they will work out even on a commercial basis, but it provides a place for you to sell.

The "off grass" sale will begin immediately following the last animal in the show and sale.
